

Beautiful stories. Told in pure wool.

Timeless textiles rediscovered

History meets mystery in this colorful detective story. In its day, the elegant parlor greeted dignitaries, scholars and musicians. Today, it is a national landmark, a living testament to one of our country's most fascinating religious communities. When it came time to restore this stunning carpet, a detective story unfolded.

Recreating the fashion-forward shades and textures of the 1830s is no easy task. Thorough research, precise paint analysis and vivid imagination are needed to reproduce the complex, obsolete flooring fabric faithfully. Working with a renowned design historian, we created a rich, intricate pattern that instantly takes visitors to another era. Step back into an unforgettable story.

Every great story begins with wool

At Langhorne Carpet Company, we create legendary pieces of art. Every installation is meticulously crafted and custom matched to any color – with the finest-grade, opulent wools, dyes and tireless hand work.

Using 19th-century techniques – with a touch of modern technology – we weave extraordinary carpets to delight your most discriminating client. Designs are fashioned with hand-punched Jacquards, then painstakingly produced with every loop carefully inspected.

Say it in wool

You'll find our works of art everywhere, from an epic Manhattan penthouse to the White House. Dazzling modern designs and historical reproductions, crafted in superior wools from Great Britain and New Zealand.

In addition to our peerless custom work, we offer an extensive collection of stocked designs – a truly incomparable array of broadlooms, narrow looms and borders that are distinctive and elegant.

Wool is for living. It's natural, durable, renewable and looks better...longer. Our buyers insist on the world's finest wools – for impeccable color, texture, feel and finish.

Let's create your next story.

History

woven into every yard

Andy Ruiz, weaver

"I've been here almost 30 years. I came first, then I brought my son and later, my brother. I taught them how to weave, how to use the machinery, how to make really great carpets. I taught them to watch the looms run, to listen to them and to take pride in what they do.

"After all of this time, I am still excited to come to work each day. There's always something new here. Nobody knows everything. I make it my business to never stop learning."

We are fourth-generation artisans who apply age-old techniques and craftsmanship to create timeless treasures out of the finest wools from Great Britain and New Zealand. Each Jacquard is hand punched to exacting standards. Each carpet is woven individually, from start to finish. Every loop is inspected by hand.

A Langhorne carpet tells a story. A story of every person who walked on it. A story of every home it graced. A story of every skilled hand who helped construct it. Our turn-of-the-century mill is our first and only location – where we have elevated Wilton carpet weaving to an art form.

We are a family, a dedicated group of caring, conscientious people proud to bring you the world's most beautiful carpets.
